Two Financial Items.
Cardozo, Excellent Choice.
Digging in To Die.
John D.'s Philosophy.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16—In a [illegible] control of the Transamerica [illegible], lineal descendant [illegible] Bank of Italy, A. P. Giannini, who created the bank, won an [illegible] victory with more [illegible] votes out of 24,- [illegible] that interests East and [illegible].

ANOTHER financial item. Thomas Fortune Ryan's property, left behind when he died in 1928, amounts to "only" $135,000,000. He used to say when alive, "The income tax has cut my fortune in [illegible]."

[illegible] probable that 1929 cut it still more, since few escaped that crash.

A man of great energy was Thomas Fortune Ryan, knowing how to get control of properties and make them profitable for himself. The late J. P. Morgan said "Ryan can be the richest man in the world, if he wants to."

Mr. Ryan bought diamond mines in South Africa, brought the diamonds out by airplane, which disappointed would-be robbers, and [illegible] how to pick good men for his [illegible].

THE POSSIBILITY, suggested here when Justice Holmes resigned, that Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo might be chosen to succeed Justice Holmes, became reality yesterday when Judge Cardozo was appointed by the President.

He is a man of highest character, profound knowledge of law. His appointment will be approved universally, and the fact that he [illegible] of Jewish birth, the second of his race to be appointed to the supreme bench, interests many energetic Americans.

JAPAN continues sending more guns, men, airplanes, fighting ships, while an Associated Press dispatch from Shanghai tells how the Chinese pathetically "dig in to die." That sounds like the resignation of a race growing old. A younger race would "dig in" to make the Japanese sorry they ever came.

You don't know much about individuals or nations until you have seen them losing.

It is possible to be an excellent winner, following up advantages vigorously, and a poor loser, discouraged by defeat.

The Japanese, since they became westernized or what we call "civilized," have not known defeat. They beat China with ridiculous ease, beat Russia, and are still bitter because Theodore Roosevelt as umpire did not give them all they had hoped for from Russia.

How will the Japanese take defeat? That remains to be seen, but there is every reason to suppose that they will take it calmly, if they have taken victory hitherto. Much depth to the Japanese character, and, as time goes in Asia, that race is young.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, in good health again, tells reporters that follow him to church: "You may say again—I am happy to be [illegible]."

That is the statement of a philosopher. All that we get from this existence is "being alive." A place to sleep, air to breathe, water, food and opportunity to look at the sky and wonder who made it.

CHINESE CORPS CUT DOWN BY JAP ARTILLERY

Large Body of Troops Caught in Searing Fire Near Shanghai.

OTHER SECTORS QUIET

League Council Orders Renewed Plea That Japan Cease Hostilities.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 16—Japanese air scouts flying high over the Kiangwan district between Shanghai and Woosung this afternoon spotted a large body of Chinese troops, including cavalry, moving into the front lines.

Quickly the planes darted back to the Hongkew base and in a few moments Japanese artillery was cutting the Chinese column to pieces. The Chinese sought cover but not, Japanese headquarters said, until heavy casualties had been inflicted.

In other sectors this was a quiet day. The bombardment of Chapei had subsided and there were no open hostilities at Woosung, but Japanese troops were still moving up for the expected offensive.

The Chinese took advantage of the lull to strengthen their lines and repair roads and communications in the Chapei area.

Infantry columns marched here and there and cavalry and artillery units dashed about. Artillery lined the roadways, well-groomed horses hitched and ready.

Japanese aviators warmed themselves around fires at a newly built airdrome at the settlement limits. Mechanics "tuned up" the planes and others filled the bomb racks. Around the edges of the airdrome 30 planes glistened in the sunshine.

The atmosphere indicated that something was about to happen, but except for a brief artillery duel over Chapei earlier in the day, there was little field action.

Expert Maneuvering

General Tsai Ting-Kai, dapper, brilliant young poet-commander of the Chinese forces, shifted his 50,000 troops with surprising rapidity, apparently to block Japanese moves. Each side apparently sought to counteract the increasing preparations in the other camp.

Meanwhile the Chinese Bankers' association presented the Nineteenth army which is defending the city with 250,000 Mexican dollars as an expression of "gratitude and good will."

League Prepares Appeal to Japan

(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Feb. 16—A drafting committee of the League of Nations council was instructed today to frame an urgent appeal to Japan asking her to cease hostilities in the Far East, and telling her that the league will refuse to recognize any territorial changes which have occurred as a result of "Japanese occupation." The committee got its instructions from the 12 neutral members of the council.

The council decided that the communication should also ask Japan to try to reach an understanding with China. As for the "territorial changes," the council based its action on article 10 of the league covenant which guarantees territorial integrity of league members.

The appeal was decided upon as the result of word that efforts of four powers toward peace had come to naught.

"Retreat Without Defeat" Forecast

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 16—A retreat of the Chinese forces defending Shanghai because of lack of munitions was predicted today by a semi-official Chinese government spokesman as the probable eventual outcome of the massed Japanese attack, if and when it comes.

The retreat is almost inevitable, he said, but he added that it would be a retreat without defeat.

China has millions of men, he said, enough money to keep the army fed and for the first time in many wars she also has the necessary morale, though not the facilities necessary to keep her guns supplied with sufficient ammunition.

Chinese soldiers now have orders to use ammunition only when it is certain to be effective, he said

The chief cause of the Chinese ammunition problem, the spokesman said, arises from the fact that most of the rifles used by the 19th route army are of Japanese manufacture. The beginning of hostilities cut off the supply of ammunition for these guns.

Hitler has been conferring recently with leaders of the Steel Helmets and the Nationalists and it was thought possible they might unite on the Nazi leader as a fusion candidate.

NOTED ACTRESS PASSES AWAY

Minnie Maddern Fiske, 66, at Close of Distinguished Career.

RANKED HIGH IN ART

Once Designated as Greatest of English-Speaking Women of Stage.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, famous actress, died yesterday at Hollis, Long Island. She was 66 years old.

Her death was not announced until today. She had been ill for three months. She made her last stage appearance on Nov. 7, at the Blackstone theater in Chicago in the play "Against the Wind."

She was forced to cancel her engagement by her physician, who was alarmed at her condition, which was diagnosed as auto-intoxication.

A review of the American stage would reveal few actresses who have attained to greater heights in the world of dramatic art than those reached by Minnie Maddern Fiske in her professional career of more than 60 years, during which she won universal praise for the remarkable character of her emotional acting.

Her stage debut was made at the age of three.

Given Highest Rank

She was declared to be unequalled among English-speaking actresses in the spring of 1897, after her sensational success in Thomas Hardy's "Tess of the d'Urbervilles." Two years later the critics added many golden words to the chronicle of her attainments when they described her marvelous acting in "Becky Sharp," a play founded on Thackeray's "Vanity Fair." This production is said to

MRS. FISKE HERE IN THREE PLAYS

Marion had the pleasure of seeing "the famous Mrs. Fiske" in three of her stage successes. When she first appeared here, in "Caprice," at the old Music hall in the late '80's, she was Minnie Maddern.

She appeared twice at the old Grand Opera house as Mrs. Fiske, and upon one of the occasions was supported by the celebrated Manhattan Four, consisting of George Arliss, John Mason, Frederick de Bellville and William Mack.

GUTHERY CONDITION REMAINS UNCHANGED

Physicians Order Rest; Still Critical But Passes Good Night.

Although he passed a restful night, the condition of I. S. Guthery, state director of agriculture who is suffering from a heart attack at his home two miles south of LaRue, remains critical.

Members of the Guthery household said at noon today that there had been no change in his condition since he was stricken Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Eugene McCampbell, specialist of Columbus, and Dr. Donald Shira of LaRue, Guthery's personal physician, held a consultation yesterday afternoon. They ordered that Guthery be given a complete and quiet rest. No visitors are allowed to see him.

Mr. Guthery is being given but little nourishment and appeared to be very weak.

SPORTSMAN TRICKS KIDNAPERS; ESCAPES

HARRY H. BLAGDEN

Easterner, Held Since Thursday, Gains Freedom at Cleveland.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 16—Escaping spectacularly from kidnapers who held him captive since last Thursday, Harry H. Blagden, 45, wealthy eastern sportsman, staggered, exhausted early today into the home of a friend in Cleveland.

Blagden, prominent in New York and Washington society, had been held for ransom since he was kidnaped from a cottage at Saranac lake, N. Y. Relatives had feared he was murdered. First imprisoned in a windowless room above a garage, he believed in Albany, N. Y., Blagden was brought here in a truck. Two of the kidnapers, he said known only as "Jim" and "Zeke" went away to eat, leaving him lying in the back of the truck under guard of a third man called "Curly."

Tells of Escape

Blagden feigned sleep, he told police, when Curly relaxed his vigilance, he summoned all his remaining strength, floored the guard with with a blow to the stomach, wrested a revolver from Curly's hand, struck him and then fled afoot. He said he had no idea in what city he was until he inquired of a passer-by. Then he went to the home of his friend, Claude J. Peck, and summoned police.

There, Blagden related, how he was kidnaped. He said he was preparing to retire for the night in the Saranac lake cottage when a man came to the door asking permission to use the telephone.

Blagden admitted him and started to enter another room. "Wait a minute," the man said. Blagden turned to find himself covered by a revolver.

Given "Doped" Lunch

The captor marched him to where an expensive sedan was waiting. They drove several hours, he said, and then stopped in a wooded section where he was forced to eat a meal of sandwiches and beer. "The beer was "doped." Blagden said he believed, for he felt himself losing consciousness.

When he recovered, he was in a windowless room, with eight men gathered there.

"Is the paper right?" one of the abductors inquired. "Are you a millionaire sportsman?"

"No," replied Blagden. "I'm a school teacher."

The kidnaper gave an exclamation of disgust and then asked, "could your friends raise $1,000?"

Blagden told them his friends could raise a little more than that if they had to

Then the kidnapers made him write a letter, demanding $1,000 ransom, which was received by his brother, Thomas, under a Utica, N. Y., postmark.

Thomas took the money to the rendezvous set, but the kidnapers had become afraid to keep the appointment.

LAVAL CABINET RESIGNS TODAY

Loses Vote of Confidence; Dissatisfaction Over U. S. Visit Indicated.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Feb. 16—Defeated by 23 votes in the senate this afternoon, Premier Laval and all members of his cabinet presented their resignations to President Doumer.

The defeat was on the premier's request for postponement of debate on the government's general policies.

Behind this, however, there seemed to be considerable dissatisfaction among the senate majority with the results of the premier's recent trip to Washington during which he failed to get an agreement with the United States to reduce war debts in proportion to reduction in Germany's reparations; the departure of Aristide Briand from the foreign office; and an internal row over an electoral reform bill which was jammed through the chamber of deputies last week.

Today's was the first defeat Laval has suffered since he became premier in January last year, although this is the third government since then.

HEARING OPENS FOR MANHATTAN SHERIFF

Tammany Leader Faces Possible Ouster by Roosevelt; Political Effect Watched.

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 16—A massive, black-browed man whose fate may have wide political effect, goes on the carpet today under charges that he is unfit to be sheriff of Manhattan.

He is Thomas M. Farley. His trial takes the form of a hearing before Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has the power to remove him.

Samuel Seabury, counsel for a legislative committee which has been digging into New York city's government, called Farley a "grafter" and then sent a string of charges to Roosevelt.

They included allegations that Farley protected gambling in his political club house, banked about $96,503 between 1925 and last fall, and appropriated some of the interest on litigants' funds entrusted to his care.

Farley defended his taking of the interest as lawful, denied the gambling count and insisted his banking was perfectly ethical.

The fact that Farley is a Tammany leader and that Roosevelt is candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination has given the case nation-wide interest. Speculation has been rife as to its effect on the governor's future.

MANY INSPECT NEW MODELS AT SHOWS

1932 Automobiles Feature Darker Colors; Easy Riding, Driving Stressed.

Marionites are looking over the newest models in automobiles in good numbers at the automobile shows being staged by local dealers this week.

Each dealer is conducting his own display and each has made a special effort to obtain as many models as possible. The result is an interesting display of the latest productions of the automobile manufacturers' art.

Most of the cars being shown are of the darker colors, dark blue and dark wine predominating. More black cars are being shown this year. Stream lines with sloping windshield give the 1932 models a smooth appearance that was lacking in the models of other years.

Four points are being stressed by dealers this year in their sales talks. They are easy to drive, easy to ride in, easy to look at and easy to pay for.

The show opened Saturday night and will continue over next Sunday.

HOUSE VOTES TO END "LAME DUCK" SESSION

Follows Senate in Adopting Resolution To Amend Constitution.

ENDS LONG CONTROVERSY

Would Advance Convening of New Congress; States Must Ratify..

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—A resolution proposing to the states a constitutional amendment to abolish the "lame duck" session of congress was adopted today by the house. The vote was 335 to 56.

It was approved by a two-thirds vote as required for a proposed constitutional amendment. Having already been approved by the senate, it will be sent to conference where minor differences will be composed.

By not fixing a limit on the second annual session, the Democratic house terminated a 10-year-old controversy between the two branches. The resolution must be ratified by three fourths of the states within seven years.

It provides that a new congress shall meet two months after the November elections, instead of 13 months later, as at present. Terms of congressmen would begin on Jan. 4, and of the President and vice president, on Jan. 24.

DRIVE STARTS MONEY FLOW

$34,000,000 Brought Back In Circulation, Hoover Reports.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—A turn in the tide of hoarding that has brought $34,000,000 back into circulation since Feb. 4 was announced today by President Hoover.

While the President spoke today of an "entire turn" in the movement toward withdrawal of funds from banks and investments financial leaders of the government considered the issuance by the treasury of a new issue of short term bonds of small denominations.

Requested by Knox

Frank Knox, chairman of the President's anti-hoarding committee, has asked for such an issue to aid in getting out money secreted in mattresses, socks, and in safety deposit vaults.

At his regular conference with the press, the President said:

"I am glad to report that since Feb. 4 when I took action on hoarding, there has been an entire turn in the tide. Up to a few days previous to that time, hoarding was greatly on the increase. Since that time, it has not only stopped, but it is estimated that $34,000,000 has been returned to circulation from hoarding."

Would Delay Loan Bank Bill

At about the same time, the American Bankers' association urged holding up the administration home loan bank bill until "it can be ascertained how successful the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will be in dealing with the problems involving accumulated mortgages."

FORMER BANK CASHIER TAKEN IN COLUMBUS

Will Be Turned Over to Federal Authorities To Face Embezzlement Charge.

SPENDS NIGHT IN JAIL

Marion Officials Direct Search That Leads to Arrest at Hotel.

H. W. "Bud" Hane, 32, today was turned over to federal authorities from Toledo by local officers for prosecution in federal district court on a charge of embezzling funds from the Marion National bank. His arrest in Columbus yesterday ended a widespread search since Jan. 2.

United States District Attorney Lee Murlin of Toledo said today that his investigation had revealed that Hane's defalcation amounted to $90,000.

Nearly ill from the enervating strain of avoiding authorities, and without money, Hane was arrested at his hotel in Columbus after he attempted to cash at a Columbus bank a check given him by the Ohio State Life Insurance Co. as a loan on his policy, according to local officers. A bank teller recognized Hane's name as that of a man wanted by authorities, and tipped off Columbus police.

Tells Story to Officers

Columbus officers arrested Hane and notified local authorities. Armed with a warrant out of municipal court charging embezzlement, County Prosecutor R. M. Wilhelm, City Prosecutor John Wiedemann and Police Chief William E. Marks went to Columbus and took Hane into custody. He was held last night in the county jail.

Hane, dejected and 25 pounds lighter than two months ago, talked freely to the officers on the way back from Columbus, relating a story of trouble beginning in the disastrous stock market crash of 1929.

The local warrant charging embezzlement was withdrawn today in favor of a federal warrant charging embezzlement. The federal warrant has been issued since Jan. 2 following an investigation by federal bank examiners to determine the amount of defalcations in Hane's accounts at the bank.

Local Authorities Active

Local authorities played an active part in the search for Hane. The hunt for him began when a federal warrant was issued Jan. 2. Prosecutors Wilhelm and Wiedemann cooperated with the federal department, and on Jan. 7 issued orders to the police department and the sheriff's office to arrest Hane on sight. During the last two weeks, the prosecutors have been in active charge of the search. A federal investigator was placed at their disposal several days ago and the federal and local authorities have been working together since that time.

Hane has been in San Diego, Calif., and Columbus since he disappeared last Dec. 7 after resigning as cashier of the Marion National bank, which closed about a week after his disappearance.

He told authorities his accounts were short "an even $90,000." He said he had little or none of it when he left Marion. He had $[illegible] of his own money when he left Marion for San Diego, he said. The embezzled funds were exhausted before he left here, the amounts having been taken at various times since the stock market crash, he is quoted as saying.

Union of Weak Churches Indorsed at Meet Here

Ministers and Laymen from Six Counties Approve Ohio Council County Plan; Move To Strengthen Congregations Not Self Supporting.

Belief that the full import of the regional interdenominational church conference held here yesterday will be felt in coming months was expressed by leaders at the closing session last night.

Yesterday's meeting to discuss freely and informally the problem of combining smaller churches on a cooperative basis, which was the first of five regional conferences in the state, brought forth a resolution at the close of the afternoon session indorsing the movement, and recommending that the Ohio Council of Churches further its comity program.

Ministers and lay delegates from six counties gathered in First Reformed church to hear representatives of the Ohio Council of Churches and the Home Missions Council and the Methodist Episcopal church discuss the problems facing the church of today.

Adopt Resolution

The resolution adopted late yesterday afternoon after a talk by Dr. M. A. Dawber of Philadelphia, Pa., rural church specialist on the staff of the Methodist Episcopal board of home mission on the subject, "The Country Church and Co-operation," follows

"As representative church leaders of six counties, assembled under the joint auspices of the Ohio Council of Churches and the Home Missions Council of North America, we heartily endorse this movement for the elimination of the waste and inefficiency which are caused by the lack of concerted action in our work.

"We believe that the time has arrived to move out of the stage of conversation about cooperation into that of concrete and aggressive action. We favor such negotiations among connectional leaders and among community leaders as will result in the consolidation of ineffective churches, and in providing churches for communities not now adequately churched.

"It is our conviction that the challenge of this changing era can be met only by such a realignment of our forces as will enable us to minister to community life with churches whose efficiency is assured, on the human side by adequate size, resources and leadership

"We urge the establishment in Ohio of demonstrations of the larger parish plan, denominational and interdenominational.

"To this end we recommend that the Ohio Council of Churches push forward with its comity program, capitalizing the current emergency for strategic advance in church unity and Christian cooperation.

"We believe that an effective move would be for the council to call for regional meetings of denominational administrative leaders in order to secure cooperation in those circles"

Come from Six Counties

Last night both Dr. Dawber and Dr. W R King of New York City, executive secretary of the Home Missions council, gave interesting addresses. Yesterday morning and afternoon sessions drew approximately 100 ministers from Marion Delaware, Wyandot, Union, Morrow and Crawford counties.

"It is about time we begin to build the church instead of building churches," Dr. Dawber said yesterday afternoon, adding, "I would like to declare a moratorium against building churches.

"If we could forget we ever had denominations, there isn't enough difference in what we believe that we could not carry out the program before us today," he said.

Dr. Dawber favored the united parish as a demonstration of the Christ spirit and suggested a larger parish interdenominational plan.

Dr F. H. Roberts, superintendent of the Springfield district of the Ohio M E. conference, gave a short talk, in which he expressed the belief that the overhead managements of the churches are more willing to make these changes than the churches themselves. "All we need now in order to get some very important projects going is the consent of the local communities."

Dr King and Dr. W H. Thompson, field secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, assisted Dr. Dawber in his illustrated talk

Dr. King brought to the meeting last night the message from the Home Missions Congress in Washington, D C in December, 1930. His talk was on the subject, "Home Missions for Today."

Amateur Radio Operators Here "Talk" Over Air Lanes To Many Distant Lands

Seven Marion Persons Have Licenses for Short-Wave Stations.

Communication with Europe, Cuba, South America Not Uncommon.

AMATEUR radio stations, which [illegible] called upon in time of emergency when other [illegible] communication fail, are [illegible] popular in Marion as [illegible] them are now owned and [illegible] local residents. [illegible] stations, of which there [illegible] in the United States, [illegible] their worth over the [illegible] during floods, earthquakes [illegible] They are licensed by the United States department of commerce and are assigned wave lengths and kilocycles just as any commercial station. There is, however, no restriction on the hours of operation, as they may go "on the air" at their owner's pleasure.

List of Stations

Stations licensed in Marion with their owner's name and call letters are W8AUF, A. K. Merchant of 458 Forest street; W8BAS, Jack B. Hoagland of 212 Barnhart street; W8BIV, Charles C. Dengler of 155 Johnson street; W8BVR, D. A. Brown of 157 south State street; W8CMI, Charles C. Whysall of 149 Chicago avenue; W8CPX, Harold D. Reece of 752 Davids street and W8DIS, Paul E. Brobst of 538 south Prospect street. Another station, W8BDY, which was operated by Robert K. Beal of 362 Uhler avenue, has been discontinued.

The United States is divided into nine districts, with the letter "W" standing for this country and the numeral directly after it the district in which the station is operated.

Harold D. Reece, 17, a senior in the scientific course at Harding High school, one of the youngest licensed amateur radio operators in the country, gave the following information when asked to explain some of the more intricate details of the operation of these stations. Reece has made a study of radio for three years, receiving his license June 5, 1931.

To obtain a temporary license good for one year, an operator must be able to send a minimum of 10 words a minute in international Morse code, have a general knowledge of radio and know some of the "Q" signals. The latter term applies to three letter abrevations for queries commonly passed between operators, such as QRA, "what is the name of your station," QRN, "are you troubled by static," or QRM, "are you being interfered?"

These temporary licenses are obtained by mail from Detroit, the residence of the supervisor of radio in this district. For a permanent license, the operator must appear before an examiner in person.

Maximum Is 1,000 Watts

The maximum limit of power for an amateur station is 1,000 watts, which, however, is rarely used. The average station is operated on less than 50 watts.

Seven meter bands have been assigned for the use of amateurs, ranging from .75 of a meter to 175 meters. For short distance it is best to use 160 meters and 10 meters for longer range. In the daytime, it is best to operate on 40 meters, going to 80 after 6 p. m. For changing from one wave length to another, detachable coils are used, with the number of wrappings determining the meter length.

The call, "CQ," followed by the sender's call letters, is a signal for anyone listening to respond. In this manner most of the "air traveling" is done. After communicating with a fellow amateur, it is a custom to exchange "QSL" cards, giving a full description of the stations and something of their history.

Some amateur operators use a telephone transmitter or microphone for their broadcasting. The disadvantage of this lies in the fact that distance is materially cut down as the human voice is hard to understand at a long distance. Also, there are only three of the meter bands assigned for voice transmitters, thereby cutting down the range of stations to be communicated with. Phone work is better for short distance, however, as it is easier to operate and does not require the use of code. Police radio signals are sent in this manner.

Distant Visitors

There is practically no limit to the distance which may be obtained with a short wave set. Cuba Canada and all points in the United States are casual "pickups" while it is not unusual to get Hawaii, South America, Holland, Germany or other parts of the world. One Marion operator, Jack Hoagland of station W8BAS, has communicated with Holland, "talking" by wireless to C. A. Gehrels, operator of station PAOQQ, Eindhoven, Netherlands. Proof of this is printed in a booklet published by the department of commerce which prints the logs of all stations. Each operator must keep one of these logs, in which he records every station contacted with and its description.

Like commercial long wave stations, amateur operators are required to give the call letters of their station every 15 minutes while broadcasting.

ASK $500 DAMAGES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Pedestrian Sues Driver for Injuries Suffered Here Jan. 13.

Mrs. Susan M. Haskell, mother of Esther Lucille Haskell, 14, who was injured Jan. 13, when struck by an automobile driven by Robert Rice of 365 Fairground street has brought suit in municipal court against William A. Rice, father of Robert Rice, asking $500 damages.

The petition charges that Rice was driving in a careless manner without due regard for the safety of others when he drove his car over the sidewalk on north Main street, striking the Haskell girl who was on her way to school. It is also charged that the girl was rendered unconscious, received a broken left shoulder and other injuries which required seven weeks of treatment and which has left her in an extremely nervous condition.

At the time of the accident, Rice told witnesses he had been compelled to swerve his car suddenly to avoid a collision with another machine being driven by a woman who turned suddenly in front of him without any warning. Attorney W. Dexter Hazen filed the petition for Mrs. Haskell.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at Henney & Cooper or any drugstore—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results money back —Adv.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

For coughs due to colds, the best remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

H. W. "BUD" HANE IN CUSTODY OF POLICE

Will Be Turned Over to Federal Authorities To Face Embezzlement Charge.

Chittenden. The teller notified police after noticing Hane's name, and the officers arrested him shortly before 3 p. m.

Said Plans Unknown

Hane's father, H. B. Hane, and brother, John Hane, were the only persons to see him at the county jail last night. He told authorities that he left Marion alone Dec 7 and that his relatives and friends knew nothing of his plans, and that he has not communicated with them since he left.

He probably will be bound over to the federal grand jury following a preliminary hearing in Toledo. The grand jury will convene Feb 24, federal officers said last night when notified by Prosecutor Wilhelm that Hane had been taken into custody and brought here. The prosecutor's file on the case, including all information relative to Hane obtained here since he disappeared, will be turned over to the federal authorities for use in the prosecution.

Deputy Marshal Overmyer and Deputy Al Yeager arrived in Marion at 2 p. m today to take Hane to Toledo. Their departure was delayed more than an hour by two secret service men who took a detailed statement from Hane in the presence of his attorney. The department of justice men also obtained statements from all persons whose testimony will be used in the prosecution.

During Hane's absence, the bank has been in the process of liquidation. Following completion of the investigation to determine the amount of his defalcations, the bank has been in charge of C A. Jones, federal receiver.

The warrant for Hane issued out of municipal court charged embezzlement of $10,000. This amount was placed on the warrant because local authorities were not told the amount of Hane's irregularities.

The department of justice two weeks ago "spotted" a man in Miami, Fla on advice from local authorities. The man was arrested and held in the jail there until he proved that he was not Hane. His general description tallied with that of Hane, but a detailed description forwarded to Miami police proved he was not the missing cashier.

Hane said he had never been in Marion during the time the search was on. It was widely rumored several weeks ago that he had been seen here. He also said that reports that he had been seen in Texas and in other states were groundless.

In Bank Five Years

Hane had been cashier of the bank about five years, after teaching in the Pearl Street grade school here. He attended Ohio State university, and was prominent in athletics there. Tennis and track were his outstanding sports in college, his specialty being short dashes and sprints. He played amateur tennis in Ohio and in other states.

A number of Marion country club golf honors have come to Hane in the last few years. He won one club cup by retaining the championship three years.

He enlisted in the tank service during the war, serving several months, but did not go overseas.

Hane this morning conferred with J Malcolm Strelitz, whom he has retained as his attorney, and with his father and his brother for more than an hour. Hane would make no statement after conferring with his attorney.

Hane covered up most of his shortages by the use of bogus notes drawn on fictitious borrowers, federal banking authorities said.

"Bet You 65 Cents That Bronchuline Stops Your Cough"

So says Henney & Cooper and every other first-class druggist in the country.

One dose will give you immediate, unmistakable relief. Two doses may stop your cough entirely. A half bottle will chase it for good or the druggist will refund the 65c you paid for it.

No dope. No sweet stuff. Won't make you a drug addict, nor upset your stomach. But it will STOP YOUR COUGH. What do you bet?

FAMILY AFFAIR

Father Takes Kiddies Along While He Stages Holdups.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Feb. 16—Here's something new in holdup men. Whenever a certain robber goes on a foray he takes his family, or part of it, along with him.

During the past weeks he has held up half a dozen gasoline stations, always taking two little girls, one about two years old and the other four.

He made his latest appearance last night. While the children sat in an automobile, looking on indifferently, their father whipped out a pistol and held up the two attendants at an oil station.

U. S. ACCLAIMS APPOINTMENT

Congratulations Flood Judge Cardozo, Named Holmes Successor.

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y. Feb 16 A quiet, modest, somewhat shy little man arose today to find himself the center of an almost universal acclaim for his nomination to the supreme court of the United States.

But the hundreds of telegrams of congratulation on his selection yesterday to fill the place vacated by Oliver Wendell Holmes did not turn Benjamin Nathan Cardozo from his duties as chief judge of New York's court of appeals. Today the court will recess until the middle of March. If the senate of the United States confirms his nomination by President Hoover, but one more day remains for him with his six colleagues of the state's highest court.

The court of appeals will meet once during the recess to clear the docket and with that action will end his 18 years of service in that court.

Only nine other New Yorkers have gone to the nation's court of last resort. The first was the first chief justice John Jay, who had been Washington's secretary of state. The others include Charles Evans Hughes, present chief justice, and Harlan F. Stone.

In moving from the court of appeals to the supreme court, Judge Cardozo will take a cut in salary. As chief judge his salary is $22,500 and an additional $3,000 per year in lieu of expenses. Associate justices of the supreme court are paid $20,000.

POLICE TRACE BOMB FOUND IN CATHEDRAL

Italian Officials Refuse To Discuss Explosive, Pending Solution.

By The Associated Press

ROME, Feb. 16—Italian police and Vatican authorities cooperated today in investigation into the placing of a bomb in St. Peter's, possibly at the time Premier Mussolini appeared there after his visit to Pope Pius XI or before the pontiff said his tenth anniversary mass last week.

The bomb was removed Saturday after authorities were informed of it through a mysterious cablegram from the United States.

As far as could be learned no arrest had been made today. Vatican authorities declined to discuss the cable, and police also maintained silence pending a solution of the problem.

The bomb was exploded on an artillery range, and officers said it had power enough to have lifted off its pedestal a massive bronze lion under which it was hidden.

DETROIT — Professing confidence that the eighteenth amendment will be repealed, organized wet forces of Michigan have combined to force a ballot in the November election which would cancel the prohibition amendment to the state constitution.

The ballot would also provide authorization for the state legislature to establish a liquor control commission similar to the commissions operating in Ontario and other Candian provinces.

Just as certain of victory are the Michigan dry forces, which are preparing to reverse votes by which state congressional districts recently sent wet members to congress.

"More wet bills were introduced in the 1931 legislature than for many years past," Dr. R. N. Holsaple, superintendent of the Michigan Anti Saloon League said. "But none of them passed and only one was reported out of committee."

WOMAN LEADS IN WAR ON RABBITS

By International News Service

DETROIT Mrs. Olive Reaume, of Monroe, Mich., did her part in ridding Grosse Ile, game preserve in the Detroit river and home of some of Detroit's fashionables of some of its 50,000 rabbits. Residents decreed the bunnies must go when they began attacking shrubbery and garden plots. Mrs Reaume was one of the hundred selected gunners to take the field for six days against the pests. Although not as fortunate as some of the men, she bagged her share of the 3,000 cotton-tails killed. The rabbits were distributed to welfare agencies at the end of each day's kill.

ORDERS GANDHI AID FROM CITY

Madeline Slade, Mahatma's Follower, Told To Leave Bombay at Once.

By The Associated Press

BOMBAY Feb 16 Madeline Slade, former London society girl who is now one of Mahatma Gandhi's chief aids and almost the only one still at liberty was ordered by the government today to leave Bombay within 24 hours and to abstain from all unlawful activities.

The order was issued under the emergency powers ordinance promulgated to put down Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign. Miss Slade, daughter of a British admiral, was ordered not to return to Bombay without official permission.

"Come any time Thursday morning and you will find me still here," she was reported to have declared in answer. "I don't propose to leave Bombay to oblige the police commissioner and I shall carry on with my usual work.

"If you are going to arrest me don't disturb my sleep at midnight."

NEW FLYING BOAT TO SURPASS DO-X

Holland Plane Designed To Be Twice Size Present Giant of Air.

By International News Service

AMSTERDAM, Holland — The latest giant of the air—the DO-X—will soon be pushed into the background. A new plane is to be constructed which will be about twice the size of the DO-X, it has been announced here.

The new Koolhoven flying boat will have only one wing, with a span of 100 meters (about 328 feet), and the upper surface of the wing will be 1,000 square meters in area (about 10,764 square feet).

The total flying weight of 100 tons will give a wing load of 220 pounds to the square meter, and the total useful load, working material included, will be 42 tons.

Ten motors will be used, each of 1,000 horsepower. These motors of a new type, will have a fuel consumption of 180 grams per horsepower hour. This is regarded as a favorable figure, since the normal figure for a benzine-burning aviation motor is 240 grams per horsepower hour.

The cruising speed will be 140 miles an hour, it is stated, thus developing about 68 per cent of the motor capacity, of 6,800 horsepower. The surplus capacity is regarded as a reserve, necessary for take-offs and valuable if some of the motors fail to work during a flight.

The new flying boat is scheduled to make transocean flights and other long distance flights, especially to India.

Artificial Eye To Guide Akron Through Clouds

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—A device new to American naval aeronautics which was constructed in secret at Akron, Ohio, has been delivered at Lakehurst, N. J., and some young man attached to the air station there is preparing for the thrill of his life.

The device is an observation car in which a member of the airship Akron's crew may be lowered some 2,000 feet to act as the ship's eye, while it cruises through dense clouds.

The observer is towed along just below the fleecy ceiling and telephones instructions to the airship which would permit it to drop bombs with accuracy on positions invisible from the ship.

The observation car is so small that it would not be likely to attract the attention of scouting enemy planes.

HOUSE APPROVES CREDIT AID PLAN

Gets Almost Unanimous Vote; Some Changes Likely in Senate.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—The nearly unanimous good will of the house put the Glass-Steagall credit expansion bill today up to the senate, which probably will pass it with dispatch.

The measure went through the house with only 15 opposing votes after suspension of rules barred all amendments and stifled debate. The bill was supported by 350 members.

Senate action was not expected today. The relief issue still held the boards, and besides, Senator Glass of Virginia, Democratic sponsor, has added some limitations which the administration wants removed. One would restrict extension of the increased credit to banks with less than $500,000 capitalization; the other requires banks to exhaust all paper now eligible before drawing on the new privileges. Nevertheless no protracted haggling over exact terms was expected.

TRAINS STALLED BY MOUNTAINOUS DRIFTS

Two Passengers, One Freight Abandoned in Colorado Until Snow Thaws.

By The Associated Press

ALAMOSA, Colo., Feb 16—Train crews bowed to the elements today and abandoned efforts to move two passenger trains stalled by snow drifts on the continental divide near the Colorado - New Mexico border.

Engines and snow sweepers will be used to bring out 16 passengers and 21 trainmen, marooned in 20-foot snowbanks reported to have virtually buried the trains. There was sufficient food and fuel aboard to prevent cold and hunger meantime, however.

An unceasing gale has blown snow onto the tracks as fast as three rotary sweepers and seven plows have been able to push it aside, railroad officials said.

A freight train already has been abandoned, until the snows thaws sufficiently to allow its removal.

FLAWS IN WOMEN CITED BY EDUCATOR

"Change of Heart" Needed, Says Professor at Boston University.

By International News Service

BOSTON — "Chivalry" declares Professor Guillero Hall of Boston university, "dates back to the time when men placed women on a pedestal and kneeled before them. Once, while man was kneeling woman kicked his face and the world has never been right since."

Professor Hall believes that things will never be right until woman has a change of heart and makes amends for her actions. He says:

"The girl, nowadays, sees more men and is much more frank in speech with them than the young girl of 20 years ago. This is not at all harmful. But the girl who 'necks' with every man she meets will find it hard to attract a man for a husband. The answer is simple. Most men do not like to have a wife or a steady girl friend who has been 'petted by many other men.'

"In many cases of these college love affairs the only appeal the boy and girl have for each other is physical in appearance. This is not true love. Companionship, like that of two men who pal around together for years, coupled with sex appeal forms the only true love affair.

"The young student has to scrimp and save on his daily expenses in order to keep in the good graces of his girl friend when the week-end rolls around.

"Only two students of a class of 100 would eliminate the taxicab in order to economize in keeping a date with a girl," according to a vote taken by Professor Hall.

7 HOURS IN BED AND NOT 7 MINUTES' SLEEP

The Toll Acidity Takes!

When you go to bed dog-tired and can't sleep and you rise in the morning more tired than when you went to bed, it's a sign you're "acid." Acidity causes indigestion with gas, sourness and burning and sets up intestinal putrefaction which saps our vitality and wears our nerves.

Magnesia Oxoids, developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way. Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active oxygen, which does the three things necessary to correct acidity—stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks intestinal putrefaction, promotes bowel action. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids today and take two after each meal. See how much better you feel. If not more than surprised with the results, your money back. have been the most notable of her many successes.

Mrs. Fiske, in addition to being a great actress, also excelled as a stage manager and producer of plays. The late Mme. Rejane, one of the foremost French actresses, paid many tributes to her American contemporary's ability in this field. "As a producer of plays," she said, "Mrs. Fiske has no superior in Europe."

Native of South

Mrs. Fiske was born in New Orleans, La., Dec. 19, 1865, the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Maddern) Davey. Her father was well known in the South as a theatrical manager, and her mother was the daughter of Richard Maddern, an English musician, who brought his large family to this country and organized a traveling concert company composed of his own children and known as the Maddern Family. The daughter was christened Mary Augusta Davey, which she dropped in favor of her mother's maiden name early in her stage career.

Minnie Maddern, not quite three years of age, first stood behind the footlights in Little Rock, Ark., when she played in "Richard III" as the Duke of York, a juvenile part.

Proposal Every Other Day—To receive a proposal every other day is the experience of Miss Betty Mason, "dark, vivid and charming," who was chosen as "Miss England" in the international beauty contest in Paris. She is said to be haunted by proposals. The most elaborate was apparently that of a Frenchman whose solid slab of declaration occupied five minutes in delivery. Another suitor was a native of Italy. He sent up his card daily with just, "Will you marry me?" on it. An Englishman got cross when "No!" was the answer to his bluff island love story. Miss Mason who was awarded third place among 16 beauties in Paris, is to represent England again this summer in a beauty contest in Chile. Perhaps she will learn what a Chilean proposal is like. Does she like these excursions into the amorous? "It is too terrible," she declares—but with a laugh.

Cancer Curbed in Belfast—While the number of deaths from cancer in northern Ireland last year showed a marked increase over those of the previous year, the rate of mortality from this disease in Belfast showed no advance. This has been disclosed in the summary of the register-general's report for 1930. Superintendent Medical Officer for Health Thompson for Belfast added that the number of cancer deaths in the city in 1929 was the same as that in 1924, namely, 424, so that for six years, at least, this dead disease had made no headway in the northern capital. "It is rather an extraordinary fact," said Dr. Thomson, "that Belfast is the only city so far as I am aware, whose cancer is not on the increase. The inhabitants of the city do not seem to be subject to it in anything like the same degree as those in other centers."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Daily Proverb—"In avoiding that which is evil, I have found that which is good."

Will Hays says that American motion picture fans have gone highbrow. If so, mighty little appreciation of the change has been made evident in the regular grind of pictures being turned out under his dictatorship.

It really is a bit odd that we Americans, who have to hunt around for ice upon which to skate and snow over which to slide, have carried off the skating and bobsled honors at the Lake Placid Olympic. You never can tell!

Word comes from Detroit that one of its biggest automobile plants will within ten days or two weeks "take back" 30,000 of its employes. That's a cheering note in the present-day song of life.

The League of Nations diplomatic commission has officially notified Geneva from Shanghai that Japan is responsible for the fighting there, and that a state of war exists. Now isn't it clever for a commission so speedily to arrive at a conclusion so startling in character?

"You can pass a law that will make rich men poor," Edwin Lefevre is quoted as saying, "but you can't pass a law that will make poor men rich." Not only that, but were all the wealth of the world evenly divided one day, half the world would be "broke" the next night.

On the basis of an unofficial barograph reading of 21,300 feet, Ruth Nichols established a new world altitude record for Diesel driven machines, Sunday, while circling over Flushing, Long Island. But that is not all of the story. The last 1,300 feet of altitude were made after two of the cylinders of her machine had blown out. Imagine a man persevering in an altitude attempt under like circumstances!

Colds and Pneumonia.

In the light of the fact that outbreaks of colds are being reported from all parts of the country, it may be well to give thought to professional advice on how to combat colds, especially so since the coming six or seven weeks we are very liable to have what is commonly known as "pneumonia weather."

The outbreaks from which the country has been suffering have been augmented by the weather conditions of the last few weeks. Periods of cold weather, of warm weather, of snow or rain are not conducive to outbreaks of colds. Changing weather conditions —one day cold, the next day hot and the next day rainy—are those which intensify them. It is hard for the human body to adjust itself to such changing climatic conditions, and it is during these changing conditions that the turning of a cold into pneumonia may most be feared. To meet these conditions, physicians all over the land are uttering the warning that no cold, however slight, should be disregarded.

Speaking on the subject, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, a day or two ago urged that everybody should take precautions to avoid colds, and promptly employ measures to halt them, should colds be contracted. To this end he offered the following four rules:

"1. Stay in bed for twenty-four or forty-eight hours. Avoid bed sheets if possible, for sheets chill. Use other bed coverings to sleep between.

"2. Drink plenty of hot fluids, such as lemonade, milk, water, and soup, and keep the body moist. Avoid exposure.

"3. Have plenty of fresh air, but not too cold, and no draughts. Room temperature should be sixty-eight degrees. Air should be fifty per cent. humid. At least one-half gallon of water should be evaporated in each room each day. This can be done by placing the water in containers on heating units.

"4. Eat sparinglyy of acid ash producing proteins such as meats, eggs and fish. Eat liberally of alkali ash producing foods such as citrus fruits—oranges, lemons, and grapefruit. Citrus foods build an alkali resistance in which cold and pneumonia germs perish rapidly. Vegetables also may be eaten. Take a teaspoonful of sodium bicarbonate epery two hours."

Having contracted a cold, the most of us are prone to think of it as "just an ordinary cold" and go about pursuing our ordinary every-day occupations as usual. Yet all those who have made a study of colds tell us that no cold should be treated with contempt; that, even if it leads to no severe ailment, it weakens us and exacts its toll from our bodily vigor. Some even hold that the sufferer from a cold is never again so strong in resistance to disease as before the cold was contracted. If this be the case, and there is no apparent reason why it should not be, the sooner one pays attention to a cold and employs means to combat it, the better.

An Embarrassing Position.

It is generally assumed that the Philippine islands are to be given their freedom eventually. Liberation will come, it is promised, as soon as the inhabitants are able to get along by themselves in peace and prosperity.

There is touching nobility of purpose in the plan. It is, in fact, an appeal to better nature to perceive that this great nation takes such an interest in the welfare of a population different from Americans in color, beliefs, interests and standing much lower in the grades of civilization.

What appeared to be a promising attempt to grant independence to the Philippines during this session of congress has just been blocked neatly by Secretary of War Hurley, speaking presumably for the administration. He takes the position that the issue should be deferred, that granting independence now would be followed by "economic chaos, social anarchy and political revolution." It is unlikely that a bill to grant independence, now moving slowly somewhere in congress, will be able to get over the administrative barricades erected against it.

The administration is right; Secretary Hurley is right; every one and everything is right unless the wandering probe of speculation be allowed to go too far in either extreme of the Philippine question. Then, doubt is uncovered.

The United States has administered the islanders' affairs to the best of its ability, which has been none too good. There is no reason to believe that the Filipinos will like Uncle Sam better as he lingers longer. They may be entirely wrong in acting stubbornly about it; the revolutionists among them may be little better than criminals, but the United States will not be able to change matters much even with the best of governor generals, the broadest of policies and the most helpful of all open-handed attitudes. There will be trouble until the last Filipino who wants freedom either is dead or satisfied. Students of American colonial history know how hard it is to trample out "freedom's fires."

If the United States is to better the condition of the islanders, it must give them assistance in building up the fundamental economic structure upon which depends good government, education, cooperation—all the things that are promised. That economic structure can not be built without a free market in this country. It is no secret that one reason why congress is not unfavorable any longer to proposals for Philippine independence is the desire of certain American business interests for a tariff on Philippine products.

No one can doubt that American business will look out for itself before giving up anything for the sake of improving conditions in the Philippine islands. Still, Filipinos are expected to find cheer in the promise that, when their condition has improved sufficiently to make them economically independent, they will be permitted to organize a republic and govern themselves. If the American colonies had been willing to live on hope of no firmer substance than that the Revolutionary war might easily have been avoided.

The Greek government has ordered three meatless days each week to protect the Greek monetary unit, the drachma. Somewhat remindful of our course over here in America, back in the days of the World war, to "make the world safe for democracy!"

In the light of the prospect for better economic conditions, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has posted notices in its East Springfield, Massachusetts, plant that the orders whereby vacations of employes would be without pay, effective for about a year, has been rescinded. In times such as the country has been experiencing, every little bit of good news helps.

Were there ever before such surprising weather contrasts as the present calendar winter has produced? The canals of Venice have been frozen over while here in Ohio we have opened doors and windows to enjoy the balmy air.

Up to Monday the number of automobile fatalities for the year in Chicago numbered 140—which means that people are being killed in automobile accidents in Cook county at the rate of 1,680 a year. Is there another people on the face of the earth which can consider a record such as this with the seeming unconcern shown here in our country?

From Albany comes a story to the effect that President Hoover is being blamed for the investigation in New York City; that he is back of the state inquiry to "get" Governor Roosevelt. Frankly, we never had an exalted opinion of Mr. Hoover's cleverness as a politician, but we utterly refuse to believe that he knows so little of the game that he would put obstacles in the way of the nomination of one who probably would prove the weakest candidate Democracy could name.

Will Rogers would have congress provide the necessary legislation to raise by taxation funds with which to provide all the money it appropriates. Here's a real economy suggestion, but it's hardly probable that the federal lawmakers will follow it; not in a presidential year, at least.

The British foreign office has announced that the Lausanne reparations conference will be held next June and that its object has been enlarged to include not only reparations, but also other world economic difficulties. It's awful to think that we will have to wait until next summer to know what new offenses Europe is going to charge against us as a nation!

William R. Crissy, of Philadelphia, who made a wager that he would "crash the gates" to dine with President Hoover, play golf with Bobby Jones, play golf or motor with the Prince of Wales and play golf with John D. Rockefeller within a year from the date of the wager, fell down on his stunt, the year having expired Monday. What a pity that all who attempt such stunts do not have similar experiences! Far too much time is being given to such fool exploits and not enough to the really constructive things of life.

SLANDER ON THE AIR.

An insurance man in St. Louis has brought a radio slander action against Calvin Coolidge and the New York Life Insurance company. The plaintiff alleges that certain statements made by Mr. Coolidge in a radio talk last October have damaged his reputation in the insurance field to the extent of $100,000. The New York Life printed Mr. Coolidge's address in pamphlet form and circulated it.

The merits or demerits of this particular complaint will be established in due course by the courts. The point in which the public is interested is this: When a man of Calvin Coolidge's granitic integrity and almost uncanny caution can lay himself open on the air to a slander action, what is to be expected from scores of less conscientious persons who might broadcast their slanders with an impunity born of the feeling that they can not be reached by the law. The New York Life and its distinguished director are responsible parties. They can be held financially accountable for what they broadcast. What protection has the public against irresponsible broadcasters who load the air with their personal prejudices, slanders, drivel and untruths?

The action brought against Mr. Coolidge will afford the courts an opportunity to decide how far it is possible to apply to radio slander the same principles of law that control libel by the printed word. The private individual ought to be able to defend himself against radio slander, as effectively as he now can against printed libel. The radio public, which has invested billions of dollars in millions of receiving sets, should not have to throw that investment into the discard because it has neither the time nor the inclination to listen to slander and ballyhoo, when it has paid for education and recreation.

A determination of the superior right of the many who listen to the few who indulge in the offensive types of broadcasting would go a long way toward rescuing an instrument of potentially incalculable educational value from subornation of nauseating and oftentimes scurrilous propaganda.—Detroit Free Press.

WASTE IN PUBLIC PRINTING.

Of the many foolish extravagances existing in Washington, one of the most flagrant, though by no means the largest, is the practice of printing vast quantities of books and pamphlets for wide distribution, with no effort to gauge the probable need for such materials.

Representative Louis Ludlow, of Indiana, has introduced a bill which aims at this waste of money, and deserves prompt approval of congress. Mr. Ludlow points out that a million volumes of such printed materials have piled up in the basements of public buildings, waiting to be sold as junk. He estimates the loss in this manner at $200,000 a year.

Not only the cost of printing and binding these unnecessary publications comes from the public purse, but the cost of distributing large numbers of documents through the mails under the franking privilege adds to the postal deficit.

Yet many costly volumes are handed out to congressmen and senators by rule of thumb, whether they have use for them or not. The "Agricultural Yearbook," a large volume costing $1.50, is distributed to members of congress—677 copies to each—although 200 members are from urban districts having no farm constituents whatever.

This is one of the many bureaucratic leaks through which the public money flows as water through a sieve. Mr. Ludlow's bill is a step in the right direction, and ought to be followed by others aimed at similar instances of waste.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

How To Put On Weight.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

An hereditary tendency to leanness is found in certain families. Most of its members are small and slender, or tall and slight, with a delicate bony structure. This physical type of person is commonly alert and active, with tense nerves and often shows symptoms of overaction of the thyroid gland.

The mere fact that one is underweight can not be considered as something abnormal. It is not inconsistent with good health.

But unfavorable home surroundings, improper food, anxiety and worry, as well as certain constitutional diseases, may produce a graver form of underweight. This demands immediate and careful attention, as a run-down state of health may be followed by serious complications.

The first step in the treatment of underweight is to determine the probable cause. In the case of young girls this is somewhat very difficult. Some of these object to giving information regarding their hours of sleep, their meals and other important details.

But with all available data, we must go ahead with certain rules, applicable to all cases. In the first place, there must be plenty of sleep, at least ten to twelve hours at night. If possible, there should be a rest period of fifteen minutes to half an hour in the afternoon. Reclining on a sofa is advised and in this way there is found complete relaxation during this time.

Second, there must be a correction of all digestive disorders and constipation. These conditions are all too common and must be overcome.

Third, there must be insistence on a nutritious diet. Without it there is no hope of a physical upbuilding.

Fourth, there are some medicines, such as tonics, etc., which may be helpful. Your doctor will advise about these.

Milk and cream are fattening and at least a quart of rich milk should be taken daily. Of this amount only three glasses are required as a beverage. The remaining half pint may be mixed with cream to be used on cereals or in the form of cream soups.

A short rest after meals encourages assimilation. You must not eat and run.

Breakfast might well consist of fruit, a cereal with cream and sugar, an egg or bacon, and with either cocoa or weak coffee with cream. Rolls or toast with plenty of butter are an important part of the meal.

For lunch there may be a cream soup, a salad with oil dressing, a lamb chop or a beefsteak. For dessert it is well to have a pudding or bananas and cream. Bread or rolls with plenty of butter should be included and cocoa may be taken if desired.

The dinner may begin with a meat or cream soup. Meat, potatoes, vegetables, bread and butter, supply the substantial foods. Then there will be a salad and dessert.

Milk is best taken between meals. Drink a cup in the middle of the morning and one in the middle of the afternoon and one on retiring.

If the appetite is poor a tonic may be required. Cod-liver oil, viosterol and malt tonics are excellent.

A diet of the kind described may have a tendency to cause constipation. But bran, agar and fruit will usually overcome this tendency.

These suggestions will be helpful, I trust. Together with deep breathing, they will aid you in putting on weight.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

C.C.B. Q.—What would be apt to cause itching eyes and what can be done for this condition? The eyes are not inflamed but itch every once in a while.

A.—This is probably due to eye strain. Have the eyes examined—you may need glasses. Bathing the eyes with a weak solution of boracic acid should give relief and increased comfort.

• • •

J.M. Q.—Are eggs healthful? How should they be prepared? Do they affect the kidneys? Do they cause constipation? I usually eat one soft-boiled egg daily (for breakfast.)

A.—Yes. They may be taken in the way you find most palatable. A very soft boiled or coddled egg is very digestible. Not as a rule, unless there is a condition which is aggravated by the use of eggs. Not usually.—Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Paris Easing Congestion.

BY ALICE LANGELIER

Paris, Feb. 16—I.N.S.—Paris, long famous as the "City of Light," is now aspiring to be a "City of Order," too. Prefect of Police Monsieur Chiappe has already done wonders in bringing order out of chaos in the city streets.

During the coming year, fourteen street-car lines are to be suppressed to relieve congestion within the city limits, and then the approaches to the capital are to be taken in hand.

Ninety million francs have been allotted to the improvement of the means of access to the city, mostly in the form of road construction or alterations. This is a first slice of a sum of 700,000,000 francs to be raised by a departmental loan. Four hundred and fifty autobusses will be built to replace the street cars.

• • •

The city authorities, police chiefs and other officials set an example to others in similar positions. Foreign politics do not interfere with their fraternal spirit.

Prefect of Police Chiappe has paid several visits to London to learn all he could about the traffic control there and now Herr Grzesinski, chief of the Berlin police force, is in Paris again for the second time in four years to see what he can learn about street regulations. He also discussed the subject of the care of the unemployed with French politicians and government officials.

The Gare St. Lazare cinema which is now being built will occupy a site under the arcades, providing accommodation for 250 people at a sitting with continuous performances from 9 in the morning till midnight, each of thirty-minutes duration.

It will exclusively feature news films, and always of the very latest news. Announcements of the arrival and departure of the important trains will be thrown upon the screen and particular attention will be paid to train delays.

Other cinemas of this kind will be built in due time at other important stations of Paris.

Paris may see her first skyscraper in 1932. It will rise in a mammoth project proposed for Porte Maillot when, and, principally, if, the municipal council decides to choose one of the skyscraper designs among the drawings completed by a dozen of France's foremost architects.

Up to the present moment they have been forbidden by rigorous restrictions on the height and size of buildings within the city limits imposed by authorities anxious to keep Paris streets full of light and air.

• • •

And Paris will also have her zoo worthy of comparison with any in the world by this spring, if present plans can be carried out. It will be arranged after the manner of the fine animal park which proved such a big attraction at the International Colonial exposition last summer. The animals will be at liberty. The birds and beasts, snakes and monkeys, will all be there. A spacious park will allow the gazelles to gambol almost as in their native country. Paris, already the Paradise for woman—or is it for men?—will soon be just that for the animals, as well.

Children in the Zoar Community.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

The late communistic society of Zoar, Ohio, had a rule as to the care, education and training of children, which while not so radical as that of the Russian soviet, smacked of that regulation very decidedly. Article 8 of the constitution of the society dealt with the subject of the mental and moral education of the children and their training for useful service.

They believed in the beginning of the education of children early, and at the age of three years they were placed under the direction of the "standing committee." The committee had charge of the education institute, as they called their schools. It was under the charge of overseers and the parents bound themselves to "deliver up and place our children, after having arrived at the age of three, or sooner, into the hands of the overseers of the institute, where such children shall receive according to their years and faculties, appropriate education."

The overseers were chosen by the standing committee "subject to the express duty that they shall exert their best endeavors and care to give the children placed under their care, moral and physical consideration, the best education possible, thereby having in view not only attainments in scientific knowledge, but also to train them to perform the divers branches of manual labor."

The standing committee was charged with keeping constant supervision over the school, and it was their business to place the youth as soon as they were, in the opinion of the overseer, fitted by education and manual training to take their individual places in society.

It does not appear that the children were taken from their homes and parents during their school and training period, but their moral, mental, and manual training was wholly in the hands of the trustees.

Dinner Stories.

"By this time you are surely entitled to feel that you understand the great game of politics."

"What sort of a neighborhood is this?"

"Excellent. Some of the best people in town live in this section."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, Feb. 16—John Golden added space to the season's theatrical dish by turning his cozy playhouse over to that group of valiant showboat troupers from the mud flats. For those from the tall grass, brought up on showboat fare, it was a memorable first night, a gallant sortie.

The only thing lacking was a calliope. For forty years, Billy Bryant and his father, Sam, now seventy-six, paddled up and down the Ohio. In that time they wore out three show boats. Billy married during his wanderings and his wife, Josephine, and daughter, Betty, seven, are in the company.

Not one ever appeared in New York before. Indeed, save for a recent stay in Cincinnati and Chicago, their world had been a pleasant drifting from one jay hamlet to the next, season after season. They wouldn't even hesitate at cities for mail.

Had they realized they were to face such a distinguished first-night audience, Billy Bryant, in a charmingly naive curtain speech, confessed they would have fled. He warned after the first act the performance would get worse and worse. And added: "You better go now."

Yet his speech had a quality of disarming frankness that completely captivated the stiff shirts and ermine coats. For instance, "If you think this is rotten, you should see our Hamlet." He confessed they were all "hams," scared stiff and praying not to exit out of town astraddle a rail.

But Broadway is so used to boasting Thespians the engaging about face filled the theater with cheers. Scenery and costumes were tawdry, the lines mawkish, but there was about them a refreshing sincerity—a clean breath of the forgotten marshlands whence they came.

Among those contributing to the salvo of applause were the Charles Dana Gibsons, the Roy Howards, Rube Goldbergs, Dudley Field Malones, Buff and Steve Brody, Fannie Hurst, Gene Tunney, the Bruce Bartons, Irvin Cobb, James Montgomery Flagg and the Gene Bucks. Certainly a galaxy to inspire even a Barrymore.

The Bryants are rooted in the pioneer soil of the medicine show. While Billy's father mixed corn salve and ballyhooed electric belts, the son twanged the banjo on the portable platform and so in a prairie schooner they made "pitches" through Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas. Sam, the elder Bryant, built his first show boat forty years ago at Pt. Pleasant, West Virginia, four miles from my boyhood home, Gallipolis Ohio, on the opposite side of the Ohio. For thirty years he moored at Gallipolis levee each summer and under a flaring banjo torch herded timid yaps into the show with a deft and dulcet tallyho.

They are humble folk—these river troubadors. For twenty-five years the present company has bivouacked along the bayous without change of personnel. Temperamental tantrums peculiar to the footlights are unknown. A leading man may play the tuba in the overture and hawk postcards as the audience departs.

• • •

A touch of their innocent bravado was expressed at the premiere. After the first act, the celebrity audience was asked to the stage to meet the performers and partake of free near beer and pretzels at the bar of the Sickle and Sheaf Inn—the play was "Ten Nights in a Barroom." Not a notable hesitated. The most experienced masters of ceremony could not turn such a trick. They touched glasses with Simon Slade, the landlord; Mehitable Cartright, who never had a beau; Willie Hammond, the judge's son; Joe Morgan, the drunkard, and Mary Morgan, the drunkard's daughter—all in costume. Shyly, the forks-of-the-creek performers found the gathering of aristocratic New Yorkers fitting that bosomy adjective of the forlorn hollows—"folksy." The river folk brought to sophisticates with compelling clearness that certain, ineffable beauty of simplicity.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Feb. 16—The house of representatives has just given official approval and ordered to be printed its "prayer book."

Every four years this volume is printed and distributed to the people of the United States by members of congress.

They are the prayers which the house chaplain says every day that congress is in session and are among the most widely read of any supplications.

For eleven years the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, portly, dignified and gray-haired, daily has stood on the speaker's dais and asked Divine guidance on house deliberations.

He writes a new prayer every day, and is proud of the fact that he never has repeated in eleven years. They are carefully composed by Dr. Montgomery.

• • •

They usually are written in the morning in Dr. Montgomery's study in his home only a short distance from the house chamber. He has but one guide:

"What I feel that I need, so must those for whom I pray."

He never composes prayers for future use.

He commits each to memory before delivery. It is a familiar sight to see him sitting alone in the chamber before noon committing his prayer to memory. He refuses to be disturbed at such times.

People write him constantly for his prayers. Ministers in the rural sections are the best clients. Printed in the Congressional Record, they are made available to thousands of people daily. Several newspapers pick them up and print them daily.

• • •

Dr. Montgomery became chaplain of the house when Dr. Coudon, for twenty-five years familiarly known as the "blind chaplain," gave up the post.

Politics and religious affiliation play no part in his selection. Republicans and Democrats alike endorse him each year. And there never has been a vote cast against him.

His salary is $1,680 a year. And during the time he has served as chaplain he has been absent at sessions of the house fewer than a dozen times.

On Sundays he occupies the pulpit in a Methodist church in the capital where Vice President Curtis worships.

It's Very Possible.

It is just possible, if this Far East fuss keeps getting worse, that there'll be some ocean tonnage that the disarmament conference won't have to worry about.—Ohio State Journal.

"EMMA" OPENS AT PALACE

As an old fashioned, stern but devoted housekeeper in the family of an eccentric inventor, who mothers his children as thoug they were her own, only to have them turn against her when she marries their father, Marie Dressler, as "Emma" brings to the Palace this week what critics say is her greatest character portrayal

Those who attended the opening show yesterday saw Miss Dressler in the adroit combination of humor and pathos.

When she marries the inventor, the children turn against her. The situation grows tragic when it is discovered, upon the sudden death of the inventor, that he has willed all of his money to Emma. So intense are the feelings of the children against Emma that they attempt to have her convicted on a murder charge in connection with the death of their father.

One of the outstanding dramatic scenes of the picture is in the courtroom where Emma being tried for her life, demands that her attorney apologize to the children for the unkind things he has said about them. The death of Ronny, the one member of the family who had remained true to Emma, offers another dramatic scene.

Exceptional support is given Miss Dressler in her performance by Jean Hersholt as Mr. Smith the inventor, Richard Cromwell as Ronny, Myrna Loy as Isabelle, John Miljan as the district attorney and Purnell B. Pratt, as the attorney for Emma. The picture will continue for three days

FORMER MARION YOUTH INJURED

Glen Hupp, 18, of Wheeling, W. Va., former resident of Marion, suffered injuries in an accident last Thursday near Wheeling, W Va. He was injured when a truck in which he was riding plunged over an embankment south of Moundsville, a dispatch from Wheeling stated.

Hupp and his father, James C. Hupp, lived in Marion at 251 Owens street. They left here several years ago.

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sinewy unit. Liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA CORD PLIES UNDER THE TREAD
This is a patented construction, and the two extra cord plies are so placed that you get 56% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and 26% greater protection against punctures and blow-outs. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

Quiet, Safe, Long-Wearing Non-Skid Tread
Tough, thick rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Effective non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.

Reading of Famous Dumas Play Given at Meeting

THE ballroom of Hotel Harding was transformed into a colorful Eighteenth century court by the vivid word pictures and characterizations of Miss Lila Newdick of Boston, Mass., when she appeared before a gathering of the Marion Association of University Women and their guests.

Miss Newdick gave a reading of Dumas' famous stage play of the 1700's, "A Marriage of Convenience." She changed swiftly from one character interpretation to another, with no stage settings or costumings to assist her, nothing except a remarkable voice range, a command of stage situations, and a close study of characterization to give her audience so vividly the impression of witnessing a stage full of actresses and actors before a magnificent background.

Most interesting of Miss Newdick's portrayals were the scenes between the countess and her little maid servant and her characterization of gruff old gentleman.

Preceding Miss Newdick's reading, she was a guest of the association at a 6:30 o'clock dinner at the hotel. A few guests were present, including Mrs. W. L. Stump, Mrs. Dan Brickley, Mrs. C. B. Rayburn, Mrs. Frank Wiedemann, Mrs. Charles Rowland, Mrs. Jay Maish, Miss Louise Cunningham, Miss Evelyn Pittman, Miss Hallie Houck, Miss Jeanette Hamilton and Miss Martha Barnhill.

Sixty additional guests were present to hear Miss Newdick. Last evening she was the guest of Miss Lucile Foreman of east Church street, president of the association. She left this morning for Coshocton.

The association will meet March 14 with Mrs. Howard R. Geer of 518 Mt. Vernon avenue. Mrs. Earl T. Smart will be chairman of the hostess committee for the evening.

Your stockings fit so beautifully—you must buy new ones all the time
Heavens, No!—it's just knowing how to take care of them

This way preserves the ELASTICITY*
• • that makes stockings fit and wear

DO YOU KNOW why new stockings fit with such alluring smoothness? Because each silk thread is elastic. Stretch it—it springs right back into shape.

But when elasticity is lost—the stretched threads can't spring back. Then you get wrinkly ankles—crooked seams. Runs start this way, too—the silk threads break, instead of giving, under strain.

That is why Lux is especially made to preserve elasticity—the secret of stocking fit and wear.

*The LUX Way

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity. Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens and fades silks. Lux has no harmful alkali.

Don't use too-warm water—this fades color. With Lux you use lukewarm water. No hot water needed. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. One teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze gentle suds through stockings, rinse well, shake and hang up.

How Doctors Fight FAT

Medical science finds that lack of a certain gland secretion is a great cause of obesity. Food that should create energy goes to excess fat. People slow down and gain weight. Now doctors the world over supply that lacking factor. Instead of starving people, they combat the cause of fat. Abnormal figures, in late years, have been disappearing fast.

That modern method is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Now almost everyone has friends who know and show the delightful effects of Marmola.

If you overweigh, go try Marmola. All druggists supply it, and a book in each box tells you all about it. Start Marmola now and watch results.

CHAPTER TWENTY
A Dreadful Mistake

HOPE in her room—talking to her father whenever he came, listening to him, face averted, but unprotesting.

Waiting and waiting and waiting until tired little lines crept around the blue eyes, and a wistful droop around her mouth. Waited, with Sassy in her lap, as she wrote letter after letter—whole sheaves of them—to Dickey.

These letters she gave to Goody, who had put in an embarrassed appearance the second morning, bringing Hope news of Mama Ross' dangerous heart attack and her lingering illness. The more questions Goody asked and Hope left unanswered, the more resentful and awkward the older girl became.

For once Goody found herself the favorite of the household. For once she was sought by her father for support and assistance. And Goody gloried in her new importance. She herself was thoroughly convinced of the madness of Hope's escapade and felt no guilt in corroborating her father's lie about Dickey's non-appearance. Not a word did Goody breathe of the scene that had taken place in the billiard room the night after the wedding. Never once did she whisper to Hope that Dickey was hurt—no one knew how badly—and was lying in his grandmother's house under a doctor's care.

In Mama Ross's sick room, Goody had stood by the bed conscious of her father's broad back as he stood staring unseeingly out of the window, and keeping his averted face from the two women who were plotting—and gravely, sincerely given an oath to her invalid mother that she would never mention the episode to Hope or anyone else. Goody meant well when she gave this drastic promise, and Goody was one whose religion it was to keep a promise at any cost. She never dreamed her father half hated them both for drawing the knot tighter around Hope's disillusionment. How could she guess? She couldn't see the half sneer on his face, or the look of disgust and resentment in his tired, hurt eyes. . . . She was concentrating upon Mama's urgent, half-hysterical prattle . . .

And each letter that Hope entrusted to her sister with tearful pleadings that she post it right away, Goody brought dutifully to her father. Never dreaming that he half despised her for carrying out his orders and keeping his secret so nobly, so elaborately, so sanctimoniously.

Greater even than that were Goody's glories those days. Not only was she her mother's unfailing staff of comfort, but Goody was the general supply-house of information for all of Hope's gang as they phoned the house.

It was Goody who effected the final triumph in the breaking of Hope's spirit. Papa Ross, feeling that he had done his share, refused to actively indulge in the gorgeous drama which Mama Ross was enacting with her suburb "heart attack." When, after eight days of waiting to hear an answer to her many letters, Hope had to face herself and admit that Dicky couldn't have cared for her or surely he'd make some effort to come to her, wire her, phone her, or speak to her, the child caved in completely.

Great was the sorrow, the weeping and the moanings that went on in Hope's room. Pillow cases wet with tears, bedspread stained with hacking sobs, dresses, blouses, pajamas ruined from continual sobbing. Hope faced the downfall of pride, of trust, of faith in love—of complete disillusionment. Faced the fact that she had been an idiot, an infatuated fool, a cheap and easy mark! Realized that all they said was true. Dickey had been drinking; she had only known him a few months—she had let him waltz off and have his own way—without a murmur!

When finally Hope permitted Goody to lead her to Mama Ross's darkened and incensed bedroom, she went with some dim understanding of the game Mama was playing. Lying there, weak and frail, begging her child to "come back to her." Instinctively she knew it was a part, well acted. And yet, Mama did look ill; and the marks of suffering and torture were plain to be seen in her faded gra yeyes.

Beside Mama Ross's bed Hope knelt, her arms stealing around Mama's neck, and her head bent in weeping it out on Mama's shoulder.

"He didn't love me," sobbed Hope grateful for the soothing strokes of Mama's hand on her hair. "He didn't love me, Mama."

Which is one way, of course, of saying "I'm sorry I hurt you, Mama, and I was all wrong."

Papa Ross stole into the bedroom later and sat by the bed-side with Hope on his lap. In low tones the three talked, after having banished Goody at Hope's request.

Then, quite dry-eyed, Hope sat at Mamas desk and wrote the words Papa dictated dryly, weightily:

"Dear Dickey:

"I want you to know it was all a dreadful mistake. I can see that now. I know you see it, too. I never want to see you again. Please respect my wishes in this regard.

"Hope."

This, written wobbly, in Mama's brilliant blue ink, was dutifully folded, addressed, sealed and handed to Papa. One letter of Hope's that was really due for mailing. A letter that would be taken out of the envelope addressed to Virginia and put in another addressed to the home of Dickey's grandmother, under whose care he still lay . . .

A week later Hope set sail with her father, who was slated for a six weeks' trip through Europe on business. Upon their return they joined Goody, Mama and Charlie Rand and his folks at Bar Harbor, Maine.

Hope was changed. Anyone could see that. Even Hope herself realized that. Short of temper, Cold. Sharp, and eager for excitement. Tireless and ceaseless in her pursuit of pleasure. Tart and sarcastic in her recital of her runaway marriage! Talking of it quite without self-consciousness every time she was faced with the sheer necessity of talking of it, as youth faced youth, and old friends regarded one too kindly, too curiously, or too sympathetically. Talked a little too glibly about her marriage. But only when it was necessary! Never once did she talk of it in private. Not to Mama, to Goody, nor even to Judy Hunt "her grandest friend in the world." Only Judy and Rusty seemed to understand somehow. . . . Theirs were the only eyes she avoided . . .

Hope had left off thinking about her marriage. Scorning the thought of a man who had so betrayed her. Trembling with rage at the whole male outfit, and bent with vicious determination to make them all suffer for what one had done to her.

Yet—despite her bitterness, Hope kept Sassy by her side. Nursed and petted and fed the white cat as if it were a baby. And if any living thing heard the innermost secrets or knew of the weak moments of heartaches and loneliness, Sassy learned Hope's hidden grief and the true meaning to her new brittle and unfeeling hauteur. Sassy learned the secret and kept it well.

Back in town Hope learned from her father that the annulment suit he had filed was coming up on the calendar at the state supreme court late in September. Hope was not required to appear. There was no pleading, no chance of interference; for the annulment of a marriage of infants is not a discretionary matter, but an automatic procedure. Even if she wished, Hope could not have opposed it. Even, she mused, had she and Dickey insisted they wanted to be married, they would have had no voice: All that counted in the world of law on such matters of infantile love, was Papa Ross. Papa—and Papa's lawyer, and $1,000. It was a funny day. A day that broke her heart . . .

On the night that her annulment came through, Hope let her gay and defiant banner slump into the mud of defeat. Try as she might, she simply could not face the huge party that was being given at Charlie Rand's. She pleaded forgiveness from the passive Goody, and phoned Rusty, who was to escort her, and made explanations; pleading a headache with those at home, and shut herself into her room.

From that night onward Hope was grown up. Bravely she faced her circle.

Restless, moody, Hope had a difficult battle to fight, and as long as people left her alone she fought it superbly. But no longer would she enter into "installment bargains" about drinking, and Papa Ross did not press his point. Papa Ross had less and less opportunity to press his point with his blond and blue-eyed young rebel.

To Be Continued.

Good looks aren't always luck

Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion depend on good health.

The beautiful woman guards against constipation. She knows this condition can cause headaches, sallow skin, dull eyes, pimples, premature aging.

Protect yourself from constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN furnishes blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much safer than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily—in serious cases, with every meal—will correct most types of constipation. If your trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. [illegible]—Adv.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

The Prisoners Are Taken to the Bungalow, Where the "Other Way" Will Be Tried to Make Them Talk.

LILLIAN'S hand gripped my arm at Lee Chow's significant words, and again she spoke from the side of her mouth.

"Here's where we fade from the picture," she said. "However, I'm not going until I receive my notice."

I tried to keep my muscles from nervous trembling, and found that I had my work cut out for me. For as I looked from one resolute face to another of the men carrying on this impromptu tribunal, and saw the sudden stark terror in the eyes of the prisoners as Lee Chow said: "We shall have to try the other," I felt as if the door had opened suddenly upon some dark and terrible hidden room, the existence of which I had not before dreamed.

"The [illegible] said, half [illegible] But they [illegible] ing half way in the facial expressions of any one in the room. What means did they plan, these grim, resolute men, to compel the admissions they wished from the bound prisoners? Suddenly I felt that [illegible] was looking into the faces of strangers, these stern warders [illegible] to whom my father, my husband and my friends had suddenly been transformed.

Madge Is Sent to Bed

Lee Chow said [illegible] low tone to my [illegible] came over to us.

"The bungalow [illegible] our guests, [illegible]

"Yes, [illegible] suddenly [illegible] words [illegible] me.

[illegible] a sedative and get him off to sleep as soon as possible."

"Come on, Madge," Lillian said briskly. "Bed for you. I hope you will have news for us in the morning." She turned to my father.

"I trust so," he replied. "It will not be Lee Chow's fault if we fail."

A Sinister Fascination

We went away upon that word, and Lillian did not leave me until I was undressed and ready for bed. But I resisted her apparently casual proposal that we change rooms for the night. My windows opened toward the bungalow, but she did not give that as a reason, saying only that she thought her room would be quieter.

"Did you notice," I queried as she was about to leave me, "that those men kept refusing to answer something Lee Chow asked?"

"Yes, I noticed," she said shortly.

"Do you think they'll keep on refusing?"

"Who knows?" she spread her hands in a little Gallic gesture. "But it will be just too bad if they don't—for them. Don't think anything more about the mess, Madge. It'll be cleared up by morning, never fear, and what we don't know won't bother us. Go to sleep."

But there was no sleep for me for hours. When Lillian had gone, I arose and softly turned the key in the lock. Then I turned out my light and looked out of my window toward the bungalow, which held for me a sinister fascination that I could not resist. That the men, both prisoners and their captors were all over there I was sure from the blurred shadows upon the curtains.

A Cry From the Bungalow

The door opened, and in the sudden light, a figure that I recognized as Dicky's came out, and in another minute was joined by someone that I judged to be Jim. My window, as always, was open, and I heard Dicky giving low-toned directions, and then Jim's voice said, "All right, sir. I'll fetch them directly." He went away again, while Dicky stood at the door, and returned almost at once with a wheelbarrow full of something that I could not recognize until the door opened again to admit them. Then I saw that Jim was carrying firewood into the bungalow, and my throat constricted with vague terror.

It was a late summer night. True, I had had grate fires at this season before. But this was an unusually warm night.

I refused even to think of the question further. But I could not keep my eyes from the chimney of the bungalow, and when a little later the sparks and smoke of a freshly kindled fire floated from it, I felt again that vague terror of what was happening over there in the artistic little building Dicky had built for my work, that I might be secluded from the noise and bother of the household machinery.

With the feeling that I must not watch any longer, I crept back into bed, and lay there, trying to sleep, shaking with nervousness, half consciously straining my ears for sounds from the bungalow. I could hear nothing at first, but a little later, when I was half dozing, I found myself suddenly sitting up straight in bed at a queer sinister sound something like the yelp of a dog suddenly hurt.

LaRue, Waldo Win in Playoffs of County League Ties

GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHT TOURNAMENT PLANNED FOR MARION

PROSPECT LOSES IN FAST BATTLE, 30-28; KIRK BEATEN, 23-19

Nip and Tuck Conflicts Keep Crowd in Uproar at Pleasant School.

LaRue High school boys climaxed their most successful court season in several years last night by edging out Prospect High school in a terrific battle to clinch third place in the Western division of the Marion county league. While LaRue was taking the measure of Prospect, Waldo High school was pulling a fourth period rally to defeat Kirkpatrick and annex second place in the standings of the Eastern division of the rural circuit. Both games were played on the Pleasant High school court and both were playoffs of deadlocks resulting from the season of regular competition which closed last Friday.

LaRue and Prospect put on a nip and tuck battle that kept the capacity crowd in a constant uproar. Prospect jumped into the lead in the first period by completely outplaying LaRue but in the second LaRue reversed the situation and climbed into an 18-12 advantage by halftime. LaRue's drive faltered somewhat in the third frame but was still good enough to keep Prospect on the defensive most of the time.

Prospect collected its forces in the last frame and staged a fast moving drive for points that all but turned defeat into victory. LaRue lost three men on personals in the last frame but the substitutes held their own with Prospect and clung to the slim lead until the gun cracked to end the battle.

Kirkpatrick, led by Bob Hart, outplayed Waldo for three periods of the conflict and then let down and saw the Copeland-coached outfit turn loose a scoring drive that turned a point deficit into a lead and apparent defeat into victory. Cleveland and Rengert starred for the Waldo boys. Rengert was high scorer with nine points.

Both games were among the best played this season among Marion county teams. The pass work was at times erratic but what the teams lacked in polish they more than made up in their hard-driving play. Fouls were numerous but they were more the result of the terrific battling than anything else.

The Waldo victory gives the Copeland team the right to meet Meeker Friday night in a battle to decide the winner of third place in the Marion county league.

COACHES FAVORABLE TO NEW GRID RULES

Few Dissenters Found To Changes Designed To Make Game Safer.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Generally speaking, the official reaction to changes made by the national football rules committee has been favorable but there have been dissenters enough to make the debate interesting.

The new and liberalized substitutes rule and the move toward making equipment safer, met with almost unanimous approval. Protests of varying degrees of emphasis greeted the other four changes—alterations in the kickoff and "dead ball" rules and the committee's decision to forbid the use of the flying block and flying tackle, and the aggressive use of hands on the defense.

Those who favored the changes took the position that the rules committee had made the game safer for the players without taking anything vital from it. Those opposed believed some spectacular features had been removed and that the new rules would handicap the smaller player severely.

Elmer Layden of Duquesne declared the rule which forbids a player on the defense to strike a rival on the head or face with his hands "will eliminate the use of small players," and called it "simply a protection for the big boys."

TWO CHURCH QUINTS TO RISK LEADERSHIP

Epworth Meets Forest Lawn, Christians Play United Brethren Tonight.

Two leaders will meet two second division teams tonight as the city Sunday school basketball league moves into next the last week of the battle to decide the church championship of Marion. Forest Lawn will take on Epworth M. E. and attempt to halt the title bound rush of the Methodists and United Brethren will step into the pathway of the high powered Central Christian combine. A third game will match the First Presbyterians with the St. Mary's Irish in a game that will decide nothing in particular.

The opening clash tonight will be the Forest Lawn, Epworth, the second the Christian-United Brethren and the Presbyterian-St. Mary's.

Both the Christians and Methodists have gone through the season thus far with only one defeat each and both will be favored to add another victory to the list tonight. A victory tonight will hurl them against each other next Tuesday in a tie for the top post. Calvary Evangelical also has a chance to finish in a deadlock for the top. A play-off will be held to decide the championship in case the race ends in a dead heat between two or more teams.

Tonight's games will be the final start of the regular season for the Forest Lawn and St. Mary's teams. However, both of these will play in an elimination tournament to be conducted by the league following the close of the championship race.

Claridon Girls Set Dizzy Pace in East Half of Rural Circuit

Winning championships of the Eastern division of the Marion county basketball league is getting to be a habit with Claridon High school. For the last three years in succession the lassies coached by A. B. Augenstein have romped through all opposition to win the division championship. In the season of 1929-30 the Augenstein proteges won the Group C title of the county and then lost the county tournament championship to Martel. In the 1930-31 season the team took the honors in the Eastern division by winning seven games and losing one and in the season just closed they repeated for the East half crown by chalking up 10 straight victories. The county was divided differently in the 1929-30 season than it has been in the last two years.

Claridon residents are staunch supporters of the girls' court combination and if there are those who doubt such a statement, definite proof can be obtained by making the little jaunt out to Claridon and suggesting that the charges of Mr. Augenstein are not the best in this district. They're not backward about boosting the team and they have plenty of arguments with which to back up their contentions.

Last season Claridon lost one game to Kirkpatrick and turned in seven victories. Besides this two of the girls, Willcox and Kraner finished in sixth and seventh places in the individual scoring race of the county league, including both the East and West divisions. Counting only the Eastern half they ended the race in third and fourth with 88 and 81 points respectively. One of the two, Willcox, was awarded the center position on the all-county mythical girls' team.

In the season just completed, Claridon chalked up 10 straight victories and few indeed were the opponents who as much as gave them sturdy competition. For the second season in a row Willcox is found right up among the leading scorers of the county although a final accounting has not revealed the exact position. Kraner, the high scoring forward of last year got fewer points this season, having been shifted to a guard post part of the time, which, under girls' rules, does not allow her to flip baskets. However, the fact she has made fewer points makes her of no less value to the team. She was shifted in order to strengthen the team and how well the plan worked can be better seen by taking a glance at the comparatively low scores turned in by opposing teams. Kraner was not wholly responsible for this. She had two other guards helping her but she certainly did her part.

Quick Watson, the bouquet of roses! These girls have earned all the flowers they can carry.

THREE TEAMS STILL IN RACE FOR TITLE

Ohio State Jolted to Sixth in Big Ten by 43-26 Beating.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 16—Of ten starters in the race for the Western conference basketball title, only three, Northwestern, Purdue and Michigan were still running today.

Minnesota's chances were wrecked last night at Champaign, where Illinois trimmed the Gophers, 23 to 15. Purdue edged a little closer by walloping Ohio State, 43 to 26, and Michigan held on by giving Iowa a 40 to 22 beating. In the other game, Indiana defeated Wisconsin, 33 to 21.

Purdue, after being forced into overtime to defeat Ohio last week, did a thoroughly convincing job last night. The Boilermakers led all the way and Johnny Wooden, Purdue's crack guard, scored nine points to go into the third place in the individual contest with 61 points. Purdue will meet Northwestern Saturday night, with first place hinging on the outcome. The Boilermakers have five victories and one defeat, to seven triumphs and one defeat for Northwestern.

Daredevil Sled Pilots Poised for Speed Dashes

By The Associated Press

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 16—The 1932 winter Olympics over, a band of daredevils took their bobsleds out today to prove the sport's lure on deadly Mt. Van Hoevenberg, or break their necks in the attempt.

There were no international officials to raise warning hands, no loose snow piled in the straightaways, for safety's sake, nothing to stop the blinding speed that can be attained when the mile and a half chute is in perfect condition.

All night workmen raked snow from the course and sprayed it with water until it glistened in the frosty moonlight like a sluice of twisted, burnished silver. It was a track for Americans and American speed down a path of ice, not a snow track to balance things for international competitors.

Yesterday, on a surface still covered with snow and rough and lumpy from the freezing of Sunday's' slush, Billy Fiske piloted his team to the Olympic four-man championship in the final event of the games, nosing out Homburger's crew in two final spectacular heats by a margin of only 2 2-100 seconds.

DRUMM WINNER IN BILLIARDS MATCH

Blanchard "Doggie" Drumm, chalked up his eighth victory in nine starts last night in the Ohio pocket billiards league by defeating Lowe of Mechanicsburg in a match played at the Recreational billiards parlor. The score of the match was 125 to 96, 125 to 91. Drumm's high run for the match was 26 against a high of 21 for the loser.

Drumm will play Huffman at Cardington on Thursday night.

Foul Shooters To Compete for Trophy Friday

Twelve of the most proficient foul shooters in Marion county basketball circles are expected to compete Friday night of this week in The Star auditorium for the foul shooting championship of Marion county. The school which the winner of the championship will represent will gain possession for a year of the handsome rotating trophy presented by The Star last season.

The trophy, now in possession of Green Camp High school was won with a record of 10 successful tosses in 15 attempts last year by Nelson Ritzler of Green Camp. Ritzler competed in a field of 10 contestants.

The trophy, approximately 14 inches high, consists of a figure of a player in the act of tossing a free throw. It is mounted on a black bakelite base and is handsomely engraved. The school whose representatives win it three times will gain permanent possession of the award.

Each contestant will be allowed 15 throws in the tourney. Three trial throws will be allowed before the official start. The tournament will get under way at 7 p. m., one half hour before the first game of the basketball tournament is scheduled to start. A certain time will be alloted for each contestant and he must be ready to shoot at that time or forfeit his right to compete as the basketball games will not be held up for the foul shooting competition. The time for each contestant will be published in these columns later this week.

In case of two or more contestants being tied at the end of the 15 tosses, five more will be alloted with the highest total to win.

BOZINIS PINNED BY PADDY MACK IN MAT PROGRAM AT SHOVEL

Popular Wrestler Forced the Limit To Down Greek; Temple Gets Draw.

Willingness to mix it gave Paddy Mack a hard-earned victory over Nick Bozinis in the main go of last night's mat program at the Steam Shovel gym. Bozinis substituted for Fred Moran, who was billed as the opponent for Mack.

Bozinis gave Mack his hardest battle since he started showing here and for a time it looked as though the Marion favorite was about to be beaten.

Mack's flying body scissors following a series of flying head locks gave him the first fall in 0:16:15. It was only during this first fall that Mack looked superior to Bozinis.

Bozinis literally battered Mack into submission to take the second fall. The toothless Greek applied a series of flying holds and slams and won the fall with a body chancery in 0:25:26.

Mack got a break in the third fall when Bozinis got tangled up in the ropes. Mack immediately fell and pinned his man in eight minutes.

Carl Adler, the tough Indian Lake lightheavy, and Tom Temple of Marion fought to a draw in the 45 minute semi-final. Neither man was able to score a fall. A number of fans thought Temple should have had the decision.

In the preliminary, Claude Swindell and Joe Snyder wrestled to a draw.

Bill Hargrave, hurler who will try out with the Philadelphia Nationals of his home town, Wheatland, Mo.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on the 30th day of January, 1932, The Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church of Marion, Ohio, a religious society incorporated under the laws of Ohio, through its trustees filed its petition in the Common Pleas Court of Marion County, Ohio, being Cause No. 22186, praying for authority from the said court to encumber the following described real estate belonging to said church:

Situated in the County of Marion, in the State of Ohio and in the City of Marion and bounded and described as follows:

Being the south half of Lot Number One Thousand Seventy-one (1071) in Wallace and True's Fourth Addition to the City of Marion, Ohio.

Said authority is asked for the reason that the trustees of said church desire to borrow Six Hundred and no-100 Dollars ($600.00) to take care of current expenses and carry on the work of the church. A former loan of Two Thousand and no-100 Dollars ($2,-000.00) was made by Marion Presbytery to said church without security, with an agreement that it was to be later secured, but no security was given by said church. Said trustees now desire to encumber said real estate in the amount of Two Thousand Six Hundred and no-100 Dollars ($2,600.00) to secure the $600.00 now desired and the former loan of $2,000.00.

Said application will be for hearing on and after the 27th day of February, 1932.

NEW "MISS FRANCE" IS OLD-FASHIONED

Girl of Plain Habits Wins Beauty Title in Country Overseas.

By International News Service

PARIS—It will be a real old-fashioned girl who represents Europe in the big beauty contest in America next year, if Miss France happens to carry off first prize. She is newly-elected Mademoiselle Emilienne Caisson de Souza, daughter of a wealthy lawyer from Nice, and not yet turned eighteen.

Lyne, as she is called by her best friends, has long dark brown hair framing a lovely oval face, eyes that have been likened to the green Scottish lakes, and a most heavenly smile. Her hands, with long smile. Her hands, with long tapering fingers, seemed to have caused the most comment from the judges, although she recently obtained first prize in a large contest for the most beautiful eyes in France and was then urged to try her luck at this much bigger beauty contest.

An enemy of modern dances and especially of the very new "Biguine" which all Paris is dancing, Mademoisell Lyne modestly admits that she has never seen the inside of a Parisian cabaret and more than that, does not care to see one. She has yet to taste her first cocktail and she also says she is in no hurry to do that.

Like many French girls, this beauty and her tastes run toward the fine arts. She is said to be very clever at mathematics, has brilliant poise, a good sense of humor and a most practical outlook on life. She has had the traditional education of the average French mademoiselle and lives with her mother in the capital.

95 HONOR GUESTS AT GALION MEETING

Local Society Members Are Winners of Contest.

Ninety-five young people of the Christian Endeavor societies of the First United Brethren church motored to Galion last night where they were entertained by the Galion U. B. societies. The Marion group defeated the Galion young people in a membership and attendance contests and were their guests last night.

A program was presented by the Galion societies, after which refreshments were served. Speakers in the social hour were Rev. J. F. Patterson of Galion, Dr. O. F. Laughbaum of Bucyrus, guest pastor at the local church, Mrs. Carl V. Roop and Miss Virginia Fowler.

Russell Pfeifer, president of the Galion society, extended the welcome, after which the program was presented by Mrs. C. F. King, Lowell Flowers, R. R. Ehrhart, Jesse Halsey, Elizabeth Schrader, Laura Alice Christman, Mrs. J. A. Steele, Eva Smith, Mrs. Ehrhart, Alice Jeanette Ness., Edith Weber and two quartets.

SPECIALIST RAISES WHITE-MEAT CHICKS

By United Press

TONAWANDA, N. Y.—Something new in chicken-raising is to be found on the farm of W. M. Woodward, who raises broilers almost free from dark meat.

A long shed houses between 3,000 and 4,000 chickens of varying ages. The pens are built one on top of another to the roof. Each pen has a false floor of chicken wire two inches above the actual floor. The chicken's feet never touch ground until at least three months old. The building is heated by stoves.

Because the chickens cannot scratch, and are fed 20 per cent buttermilk, there is almost no muscular development. The meat is almost entirely white and tender, even on the legs and joints.

Intellect Benefited.

By International News Service

PARIS—Intellectually, the crisis is proving a benefit in America, according to Bernard Fay, young French savant, recently appointed to fill the newly-created chair of American Civilization at the College de France. "Upon my recent visit to the United States," says Monsieur Fay, "I found people turning more and more to intellectual pursuits. More students are being enrolled in the schools and colleges than ever before. Poor boys who have not money realize they must learn all they can to make a living. Older people who have never had time for much study are taking it up now."

COUPLE ENTERTAINS

KIRKPATRICK, Feb. 16—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lemke entertained a number of friends Saturday night. Three tables of bridge were in play, high score being won by Raymond Shields. Mrs. Curtis Smith of Marion was consoled.

City Run by Two Women—While Lord Mayor Alfred Pickles of Bradford, England, is in a local hospital as the result of an operation, the busy city of 300,000 people is being governed by two women. His official duties have been taken over by the deputy lord mayor, Alderman Kathleen Chambers. Mrs. Pickles, as the wife of the lord mayor, is the leading woman citizen. Alderman Chambers and Mrs. Pickles between them therefore have to carry out the official and social activities which ordinarily would fall upon the chief magistrate. Alderman Chambers has attended at the town hall, and for the first time in the history of Bradford documents normally signed by the lord mayor were signed by a woman. "I suppose that I shall have to carry out the work for the next few weeks," said Alderman Chambers. "This will include presiding at the meetings of the city council."

Since 1924 the German government has built 1,731,685 apartments or single dwellings, designed especially to house the poorer population of cities.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER SLUMP

Early Selling Movement Overcome and Market Records Gains.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—An early ement which sent stock a point or more ran n resistance today and more than recovered its fairly animated buy-was the active accumu- priced stocks. Large Radio Corp. common ased, the quotation ad- und 1 point net. Trans- Corp. was also well pening transaction in- k of 5,000 shares was other sizeable purchases which carried the price fractionally higher. United Aircraft, Kroger, Alaska Juneau and Montgomery Ward also firmed.

Announcement of an increase of ¼ cent a pound in the copper export price failed to attract particular buying to the coppers which, however, were steady. McKeesport tin plate was a strong feature, U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, American Telephone and Western Union turned their early losses into moderate gains. International business machine was up around 4 points.

Unwelcome as the prospect of higher taxes might be, the announcement from Washington that additional increases were now planned drew favorable response on the strength of Wall street's conviction that the national budget must be balanced.

While the January foreign trade figures showed a decline of nearly 50 per cent in exports compared with one year ago, the balance of trade was still favorable to the United States. Exports approximated $150,000,000 against imports of $136,000,000.

The weekly federal reserve board report again showed an unmistakable deflationary trend, but its influence was offset by reports that full speed ahead was being given by congress to Glasssteagall bill. Loans of member banks declined another $114,000,000 during the week and investments were down $80,000,000.

GRAIN PRICES SLIDE LOWER

Decline at Chicago Duplicates Action of New York Securities.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 16—Downturns of grain values took place early today, duplicating action of securities at New York and of wheat quotations at Liverpool. A pause in European import buying of wheat was noted. Opening ¼@⅜ off, wheat afterward rallied. Corn started at ¼ decline to a shade advance and subsequently kept near the initial range.

Wheat price rallies lifted the market soon in some cases to above yesterday's finish. There was no material selling pressure in the pit, and buying support developed at around 59½ cents for many contracts. Reports of more or less injury done to domestic winter wheat southwest as a result of soil blowing were a bullish factor. The damage was stated to be most severe in late planted fields with shallow roofing.

Slackening of export demand for North American wheat was associated with advices that a large quantity of Argentine wheat had been ordered by Liverpool, and was expected to arrive by the end of February or early in March. Cable dispatches indicated, however, that active buying for European countries would shortly be resumed. Neither Russia nor Danubian countries were competing, the dispatches said. Corn and oats were relatively firm as a result of weather conditions unfavorable to corn movement.

Provisions held about steady influenced by action of hog values.

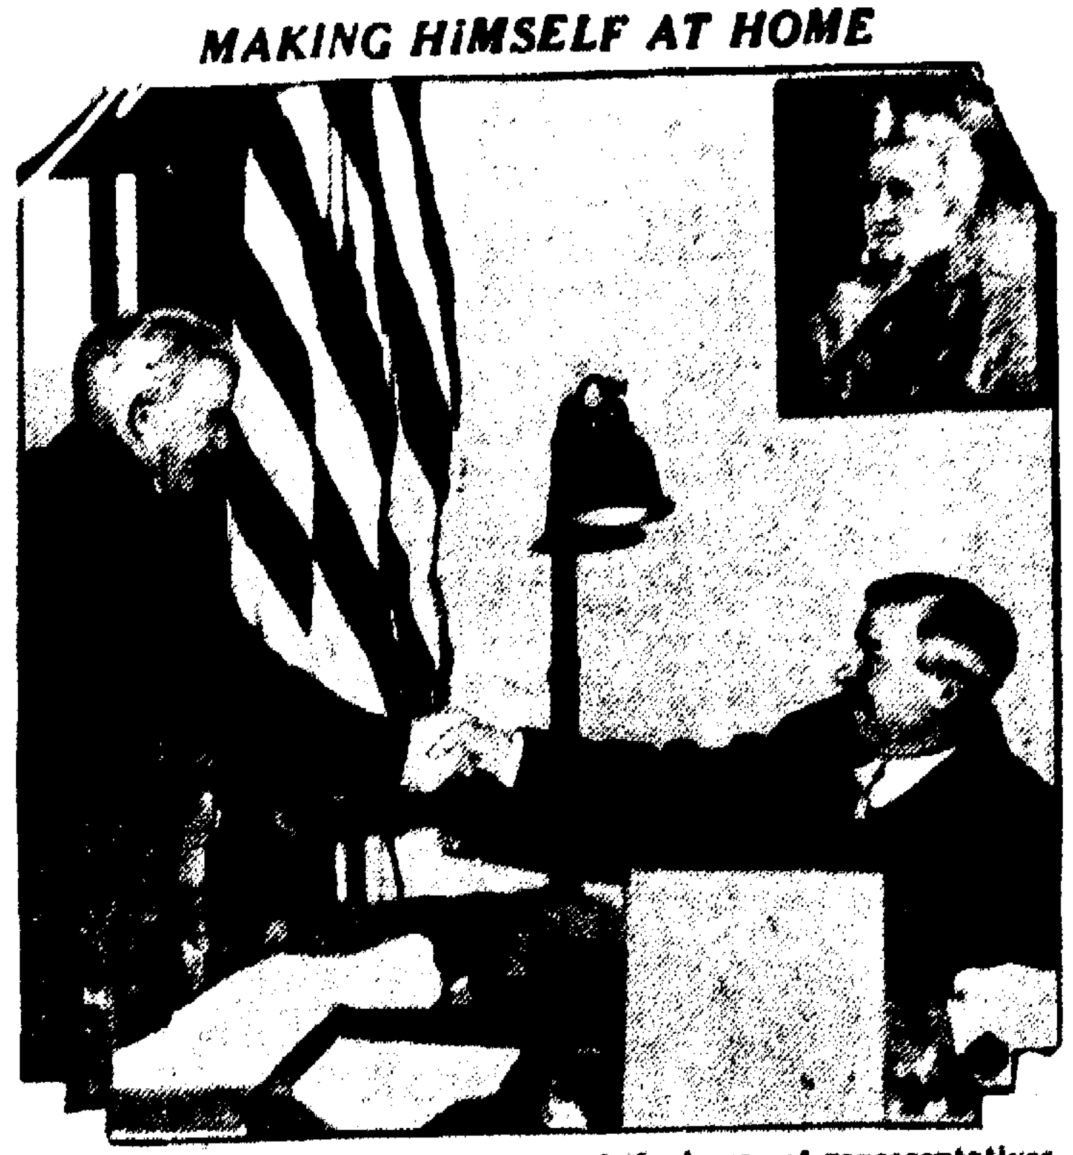
MAKING HIMSELF AT HOME



When Speaker John N. Garner, of the house of representatives, told Will Rogers to make himself at home, on the occasion of the humorist's visit to Garner's office on Capitol Hill, the noted philosopher took him at his word. Whimsical Will is shown with his feet comfortably resting on the speaker's desk. The broad grins of host and guest lead one to suppose that Rogers has just pulled one of the bon mots for which he is famous. Will had just returned from a world tour.

HOT TAMALE!

Lupe landed in Hollywood with one lone dollar and no part to play . . . But now she has nine fur coats, 15 canaries, the world's loudest lounging pajamas, and dozens of men go-go about her . . .
